
General Rules: When an entity relates to two packages it should go in the higher level one. A lower level package should generally not know about anything in a higher level package (with some exceptions for direct relationships where certain cardinality is needed).